Pool & Water Awareness 7

BEACH FLAGS

The Big Giraffe has just started a new job as as a lifeguard on Formby Beach. She wants all her friends and the Star Swimming Academy Students to know safety on the beach is important. The sea can be a dangerous place but many beaches here in the UK have flags flying to tell us if the sea is safe to swim in or not. Here are the flags to be aware of.

RED AND YELLOW

LIFEGUARDS ON DUTY

Between these flags Lifeguards are patrolling, meaning it's the safest place to swim. Dangers are still present, so be careful in and around the water.

DANGEROUS AREA

BLACK AND WHITE

WATER SPORTS AREA

Between these flags is for non-swimming water sports such as surfing and wind surfing. Do not swim here!

ORANGE SOCK

SHOWS THE DIRECTION AND STRENGTH OF WINDS

Beware of winds blowing out to sea. Inflatables and body boards can be dangerous in windy weather.
